

What is the FemiWand treatment?

The FemiWand is a treatment that encourages the tightening of the vaginal wall. Due to factors such as age, childbirth, obesity and surgery, the skin of the vaginal wall can lose elasticity. This can lead to problems such as lack of sensitivity, dryness and stress incontinence.

With the FemiWand treatment, you can improve these issues, and regain your confidence. The FemiWand uses HIFU (High-Intensity Focused Ultrasound) technology to stimulate the production of collagen, inducing a tightening effect. HIFU is one of the only non-invasive technologies that can target the Superficial Muscular Aponeurotic System (SMAS) layer, producing longer lasting results.

How does the FemiWand treatment work?

During the treatment, the FemiWand is inserted into the vagina. The FemiWand emits tiny ultrasound beams which converge under the skin, forming invisible micro-holes at specific depths. The depth of 3.0mm targets the outer layers of the skin, and the depth of 4.5mm targets the SMAS layer, which is generally only otherwise treated through invasive surgery. As a result of this, collagen begins to repair and strengthen. Collagen is a protein that contributes to the firmness of the skin. Therefore, the FemiWand treatment enables you to see results without having to go under the knife.

The FemiWand treatment is a non-surgical procedure that has no downtime.
